President Joe Biden has encouraged businesses to fix staffing shortages with a simple solution: more money.

"Pay them more," Mr Biden said in a stage whisper for dramatic effect. "This is an employees' bargaining chip now."

Biden's Secret Plan

Biden has taken to looking into the camera using a creepy whisper. Just recently he was trying to answer why employers are having a hard time finding employees. Joe, it's no secret. The problem is you!

It's no secret that Democrats are trying to push for a national $15/hour minimum wage. But getting the wage increase is harder to do than by talk alone. One concern is: can the economy support it? But leave it to Joey, he is using a method that only he could come up with. Well he is a politician, so lying shouldn't be a surprise.

The Democrats (Socialists) keep pushing for more and more stimulus checks, essentially free money, except for those that pay taxes which pay for the stimulus checks. What has happened is that with all the free money, a lot of people are making the same, if not more, money staying home rather than working. Why does this matter? If people are staying home and being paid to stay home, then it doesn't take a rocket scientist to figure out that it has created an employee shortage and with fewer people working there are a lot of taxes NOT being paid to support local, state and federal governments. But Biden can't figure it out and he never will. At least his handlers keep his television tuned into CNN so he thinks his economic plans are working, SAD.

Joe's creepy whispering is creeping a lot of people out and for good reason. Whispering and lying is still lying and Americans can still hear them.
