

California Moving to Give Money to Support CRT in Schools

A recent posting from Calif. State Sen. Melissa Melendez indicates that the Senate Budget Committee will vote July 7, 2021, on AB130/SB130, to consider giving $50 Million to schools to support the teaching of Critical Race Theory (CRT).

Personally, I am under the impression that schools are meant to teach, not indoctrinate. This recent move seems to come as the NEA Union (teachers union) has come out in favor of teaching CRT, thus indoctrinating our children to hate our friends and neighbors based simply on the color of their skin. To hate America and the principles that this country was founded. Sure there were problems in the past, but that is where they are, in the past. The current issue of racism is being resurrected by those that use racism themselves by gaslighting over and over each and everyday.

What is taught in schools should be approved by the parents, not radical teachers in our school system. Newsweek has an article that is included here:

In a Democrat controlled state, parents can still have their voices heard by having their kids go to a school that does NOT teach CRT, or perhaps home schooling could be considered. Many kids are having a problem with the basics of reading, writing and math. That's where the schools should be focused on educating our kids, not the indoctrination of Marxism. Proponents of CRT accuse those that oppose CRT that they are racist. Can't they come up with something that makes sense rather than trying to divide America?

Contact your representative IMMEDIATELY and tell them NO on AB130/SB130.
