

History Repeating Itself

After watching the current president decline to where he is today, did you ever wonder just how he got there? Was it his own fault? Is he suffering from some kind of cataclysmic medical event? Or is history stepping in and taking over?

I like to use political cartoons to emphasize the subject matter that I am focused on. As such, I just discovered today that it is uncanny that I looked at political cartoons from the past and found that they are the voice haunting everyone from the past. One cartoon in particular is where Obama said that in order to see what is contained in the “Obama Plan” is to re-elect him. Sound familiar? Joe said essentially the same thing when it came to answering questions about court packing. Erie.

There are six cartoons that I am referencing from 2012-2013, although I am sure there are more. I didn't want to make this post consist of only cartoons . On the next page down, I will post the six cartoons and I am sure that you will see the connection from then as it relates to today.

Since Biden appears to be the puppet and Obama is the puppet master, all Americans should be very concerned about the future of America. One question that seems to be looming is whether Biden's mental capacity should be addressed by Congress to invoke the 25th Amendment. With the daily gaffes and odd behavior being displayed by Biden and seeing how it coincides with the past, maybe a serious look should be given to the 25th, but then that leaves America with Cacklin' Kamala and Piss-Poor Pelosi in the White House.

I'm not sure which is worse.

(More)

