

Take Your Pick But There are Only 2 Choices

How to choose. A simple question, unless you believe in the infinite choices offered by the liberal woke society. Now granted there is something to be said about allowing anyone to think their own personal thoughts, however, don't try to blow smoke in my face and try to force me to believe your nonsense.

If someone wants to live in their own world and think they are God, then that's their opinion. If someone wants to be born a male and try to convince everyone that they are a woman, then that's their opinion. They are entitled to their own opinion, but that is what it is, their opinion. If someone wants to approach me on the street, who happens to look like a woman yet talks with a deep voice, has an Adam's apple, a bulge below the waistline and demanding I accept them as a woman, then it is possible that I might think that person is a moron. There may be a few more adjectives as well. But, that is my opinion.

Recently, I heard that some consider as many as 900+ different genders. That's insane. Religiously and practically and according to science, there are only two basic genders. One is identified as Male, and the other as Female. Chromosomes make that distinction, science, not opinion.

If you are one specific gender and want to play dress-up, then that is your choice. You may want doctors to give you puberty blockers and call yourself a Female, but I bet that underneath it all, your chromosomes will still be truthful and identify you as Male. You can't change that about you and you never will.

Be honest and pick a door, but don't demand others to agree with your choice.
